

“SharePoint On-Premises vs. Cloud Version” SWFRTP EVENT

Last week, HyperTeam had the pleasure of sponsoring the “SharePoint On-Premises vs. Cloud Version” event with the Southwest Florida Regional Technology Partnership (SWFRTP). This event marks the first of many that HyperTeam will be participating in throughout Southwest Florida and we’re happy to say it was a big success! Thanks to the SWFRTP, the event was filled with good food, cold drinks, and lots of laughter. Keiser University gave us the red carpet treatment, with access to a state-of-the-art auditorium for our presentation and a welcoming staff. Several of our fellow SWFRTP members came out to show us support, and many curious non-members showed up to learn more about our two favorite topics: SharePoint and Cloud!

The night started off without a hitch, as our over 20 guests mingled around the never-ending table of delicious finger foods and desserts. When the show was ready to start, Steven Craig, the SWFRTP Director & Event Chair, gathered the excited group in the auditorium and kindly introduced the night's topic and speakers. Marc Farron, the SWFRTP President gave an awe-inspiring speech about the mission of the SWFRTP and a recap of its recent successes. (If you're a Southwest Florida local in the technology field, we highly suggest you take a minute to check out this great group and consider getting involved!). Next, Dean Knox gave us a humorous and light-hearted welcome to Keiser University and introduced Arpad Solti, HyperTeam's CEO.

Arpad began our presentation by introducing HyperTeam and our mission, which is to SAVE companies TIME & MONEY! Using videos, shocking statistics, and vivid images, Arpad answered our guests' questions about Cloud, On-Premises, and Hybrid technology. He also dove into an explanation of SharePoint, briefly discussing why it's so widely used, the many ways that companies employ it, and how our guests could utilize it for maximum efficiency. When the technical portion of our presentation was over, Shawna Ferris, a marketing assistant at HyperTeam, took her place behind the podium and gave an exciting, live demonstration of our Project Management Solution. The demo covered everything from project creation to tracking and managing project expenses, resources, and tasks. Members of the audience openly enjoyed the demonstration, taking it upon themselves to find Shawna after the event and tell her how fun and easy it was to learn such an in-depth project management solution! Finally, a question and answer session brought the event to a close, with our guests asking Arpad a variety of through provoking and interesting questions.

All in all, we had a great time presenting for the SWFRTP and we're looking forward to collaborating with them again in the near future!
